Almost all male U.S. citizens, and male aliens living in the U.S., who are 18 through 25, are required to register with Selective Service

- Some non-citizens are required to register. Noncitizens that are not required to register with Selective Service include men who are in the U.S. on student or visitor visas, and men who are part of a diplomatic or trade mission and their families. Almost all other male noncitizens are required to register, including illegal aliens, legal permanent residents, and refugees. The general rule is that if a male noncitizen takes up residency in the U.S. before his 26th birthday, he must register with Selective Service.
- Dual nationals of the U.S. and another country are required to register, regardless of where they live, because they are U.S. nationals.
- Young men in hospitals, mental institutions or prisons do not have to register while they are committed. However, they must register within 30 days after being released if they have not yet reached their 26th birthday.
- Disabled men who live at home must register with Selective Service if they can reasonably leave their homes and move about independently. A friend or relative may help a disabled man fill out the registration form if he can't do it himself. Men with disabilities that would disqualify them from military service still must register with Selective Service. Selective Service does not presently have authority to classify men, so even men with obvious handicaps must register now, and if needed, classifications would be determined later.
- Men serving in the military on full-time active duty do not have to register.
- Those attending the service academies do not have to register unless he leaves the military before turning 26.
- Members of the Reserve and National Guard not on full-time active duty must register.
- Men who would be classified as Conscientious Objectors must register with Selective Service. If he is called in a draft he would then file a claim for exemption from military service based upon his religious or moral objection to war.

If you had special circumstances such as these resulting in your failure to register, you must get a Selective Service Status Request Form at www.sss.gov. You should provide a description of your situation; where you were living during the period you should have registered, if you were incarcerated or institutionalized, and your citizenship status during the period. If you receive a "general exemption letter", you may be exempt from Selective Service registration. If you receive any other type of letter the school will determine if you knowingly/willfully failed to register. The Selective Service letter is crucial to any final decision the school makes about your eligibility. When you receive your Selective Service Status Letter, submit it to the Financial Aid office for review.
